

Learning About Scholarships

Common misconceptions

Don't assume that:

- your grades aren't good enough
- your family makes too much money
- you haven't chosen a major yet

Keys to success

Communication

A scholarship applicant should ask ...

- specific questions
- whether documents have been received
- whether the documents are complete

A scholarship provider will ...

- explain its process to students
- answer students' questions
- not remind you if documents are missing

Eligibility

Each scholarship has different eligibility requirements.

Competition

For scholarships, you must ...

- meet eligibility requirements
- apply
- compete with other applicants

Things to think about

How do scholarships affect other financial aid?

Ask each school about the impact that outside scholarships will have on other aid you may receive.

Carefully consider whether an outside scholarship will...

- reduce loans (a good thing)
- reduce work-study (also a good thing)
- reduce grants (often a bad thing)
- reduce scholarships from the school (also often a bad thing)

What about scams?

If it sounds too good to be true, it probably is!

- "This scholarship is guaranteed or your money back."
- "You can't get this information anywhere else!"

How are recipients selected?

- Some scholarships ask that you demonstrate financial need and/or academic achievement. Don't let this discourage you from applying; the scholarship committee will compare your financial need and/or academic achievement with the other applicants, and you may very well demonstrate the highest financial need and/or the highest academic achievement among all of the students who applied.
- Within the VSAC scholarships booklet, selection criteria for each scholarship is typically listed in order of importance. Each list can serve as your guide to what the scholarship committee is looking for in its applicants.

Will I be notified?

It depends on the scholarship. Applicants for VSAC-assisted scholarships:

- are notified either way
- generally at the beginning of May

Successful scholarship applicants will ...

- identify all scholarships for which they are eligible to apply.
- read and follow instructions.
- submit all required documents before the February 16, 2018, postmark deadline.
- confirm receipt and completeness of documents.
- ask specific questions.
