

Sample financial aid award notifications

Vermont colleges may try to estimate your Vermont grant award, but VSAC will notify you as to the exact amount after you've submitted an application.

Direct student loans are federal education loans in the student's name. To learn the differences between subsidized and unsubsidized Direct loans, visit vsac.org/loans.

Federal work-study funds represent an employment opportunity. Be sure to check with your college to see when and how you receive your job placement. Remember: The best jobs go very quickly, so sign up promptly.

Ask if there are any conditions and/or requirements for "free" funds from grants, scholarships, or other sources. These may include maintaining a certain grade point average, a service commitment, or work in a specific field after graduation.

Watch carefully for the words estimated and tentative. These words indicate that the award has not been finalized and could change once your application is complete.

Dear Terry:

We are pleased to assist you in financing your education. All financial aid offered is considered to be a supplement to the resources of your family, yourself, and aid received from outside sources. The financial aid process is complex and, at times, confusing. We encourage you to contact our staff for assistance.

College budget		Resources
Tuition & fees	46,650	Parent contribution	0
Room & board	9,320	Student contribution	1,885
Books & supplies	1,000	Family contribution	1,885
Miscellaneous	500
Transportation	500
Loan fees	0
Budget totals	57,970	Need (budget - resources)	56,085

Aid source	Fall	Spring	Total
XYZ College grant	20,030	20,030	40,060
Federal Pell grant	2,035	2,035	4,070
Vermont grant	1,875	1,875	3,750
Federal Direct Subsidized loan	1,750	1,750	3,500
Federal Work-Study	850	850	1,700
Budget totals	26,540	26,540	53,080

Your eligibility for financial aid may have been determined using estimated information. Our office will require the following information before an aid award can be finalized:

- Parent(s)' 2015 W2 statements
- Parent(s)' 2015 federal tax transcript
- XYZ College verification worksheet (see next page)

Your college may require that you accept or decline your awards. Read all instructions carefully. You may be able to accept some parts of the award letter by the college deadline and decide later about loan options.

There may be more favorable loan options available to you. Be sure to research and compare rates and terms.

Award notifications may need to be signed and dated by the applicant and returned by a certain deadline. Follow all instructions!

Don't say "YES" to any college until you compare the award notification with the cost of attendance. Include estimated out-of-pocket expenses (travel, books, personal items), as well as costs for tuition, fees, room, and meal plans.

What about a federal PLUS loan?

Some colleges will include a parent PLUS loan in the award letter; others may not. PLUS loans are federal education loans for parents of dependent students. Each PLUS loan is in one parent's name. The parent, not the student, is obligated for repayment.

If it does appear in your award letter, you can choose to take less or you can decline the PLUS loan completely.

If it isn't included in your award, you still may be eligible at any time during the year.

Either way, before taking a PLUS loan, compare terms with other available options, including VSAC's education loans for students and parents, which may have more favorable terms. For help, visit vsac.org/compare.

Your total award may consist of grant, loan, and work-study funds. Read the fine print on your award notification and on any additional forms included with the notification! Identify the funds that are gifts and the funds you'll be expected to repay.
