To find a career that interests you, you need to know what you like to do and how to categorize your interests. Dr. John Holland created a system of placing people’s interests into groups. He believed that every person’s interests fit into at least one group and that most fit into two or three groups.

Your personal combination of Holland groups will result in your Holland Code. To discover careers that match your interests, find your Holland Code by circling the subjects, activities, or people that are the most appealing to you.

Count the number of items you circled in each section.

Write this number at the end of the section.

TOTAL “R” = ________

TOTAL “I” = ________

TOTAL “A” = ________

TOTAL “S” = ________

TOTAL “E” = ________

TOTAL “C” = ________

In the spaces below, write the letters from the three sections containing the highest numbers, from greatest to smallest. This is your career code and may be used in the same manner as a Holland Code.

Do you feel that you fit any of these groups?
It’s okay if you don’t think you fit any of the groups above. Interest inventories can help you explore career ideas that may not have occurred to you. They are not meant to limit your choices. You may want to talk with a school or career counselor about your preferences and career options.
