PAYING FOR COLLEGE OR TRAINING

Guide to Financial Aid

What to know and how & when to apply

What's inside:

- Grants, Scholarships & Loans—what to consider and how to apply
- Facts & Tips—key terms, where to get help, and more
- Senior Year Checklist—what to do when

There's a lot to consider when paying for college. Start by applying for financial aid.

Here's what Vermont students and families need to know and do:

Getting started

Financial aid is money to help pay for college or career training. Grants and scholarships are free money that you don't have to pay back. Loans are funds that you borrow and need to pay back, with interest.

For most Vermont families, the investment in college or training after high school will involve applying for different kinds of financial aid from multiple sources.

The most important fact to remember about financial aid is that the primary responsibility for paying lies with the family—parents and students. Financial aid is meant as a supplement to assist students who wouldn't be able to continue their education without help.

College costs include:

- tuition and fees (cost of your classes and programs)
- room and board (living arrangements and meal plan)
- books and supplies
- other expenses (transportation, personal items, computer, etc.)

$$\begin{array}{r} \text{cost of attendance} \\ - \text{grants \& scholarships} \\ \hline = \text{your yearly cost (net price)} \end{array}$$

This net price will be different for each school.

Families pay their net price by combining:

- savings—even small amounts can reduce the need for borrowing
- current income such as tuition payment plans (which allow you to spread payments out over the year) or work-study (campus jobs offered by the college to provide students with income each semester)
- future income (education loans or other borrowing)

VSAC can help

If cost is an issue, as it is for most Vermont families, VSAC resources can help you to make informed decisions. Visit vsac.org/pay for comprehensive information and resource links, including VSAC's online paying for college guide; and go to vsac.org/loans for education loan basics.

Grants

Grants are provided by the federal government, the state of Vermont, and your college. They're based on financial need and do not have to be repaid. You may be eligible for:

- a federal Pell grant or a Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity grant (FSEOG)
- a Vermont grant for a Vermont resident planning to attend college full time or part time, or for a Vermont resident enrolled in a non-degree course to improve employability or pursue further study
- a grant from your college

To apply

- 1 Complete the Vermont grant application at vsac.org/grants. Grants are awarded on a first-come, first-served basis, so apply as soon as possible after October 1. For questions or a paper application, call VSAC at 800-882-4166.
- 2 Submit the FREE Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), available in December, at studentaid.gov/fafsa, or call 800-433-3243 for a paper application.
- 3 Complete the CSS Profile® (cssprofile.collegeboard.org) and other supplemental applications if required by colleges.

Scholarships

Scholarships are typically based on factors such as degree program or major, academic achievement, extracurricular activities, or financial need. Scholarships are competitive, meaning that eligible applicants compete for a limited number of awards. Look for information and applications:

- at local high schools, businesses, clubs, or town offices
- at your college or university
- at vsac.org/scholarships—info on more than 100 scholarships for Vermont residents and links to online scholarship search tools

To apply

- 1 In November, pick up VSAC's scholarship booklet at your school counseling office, or request a copy in the mail at vsac.org/vsacscholarships. Begin identifying VSAC-assisted scholarships you're eligible for.
- 2 Contact the schools you're applying to; find out if receiving a scholarship will affect your financial aid.

Education loans

When family resources, grants, and scholarships won't cover the cost of college, most families use education loans to cover at least part of the remaining cost. All loans are borrowed money that will need to be repaid with interest, so it's important for you to understand and compare loan details before you borrow.

You get to choose the loans you want to borrow. The most common choices for Vermont students are:

- federal Direct student loans (for undergraduate and graduate/professional students)
- federal Direct PLUS loans (for parents of undergraduates and for graduate/professional students)
- VSAC's student loan
- VSAC's parent loan

First, accept federal Direct subsidized (if offered) and unsubsidized student loans. Then, if you've borrowed the maximum in federal student loans and need more financing, look for a loan with a low fixed interest rate. VSAC and other nonprofit agencies offer student and parent loans with low rates—often lower than the federal PLUS parent loan—and other benefits.

To apply

- 1 For federal loans, complete the FAFSA at studentaid.gov/fafsa. Your college will advise you of your eligibility and next steps.
- 2 For VSAC's student and parent loans, apply at vsac.org/applyonline. If you have questions, call VSAC at 800-226-1029.

Know more. Borrow less.®

- Maximize grants and scholarships first so you borrow only what you need each year. Don't borrow the maximum that's offered just because you can.
- Understand how your choice of interest rate and repayment option can reduce your cost of borrowing.

Visit vsac.org/loans to learn about loan types and how to compare them, and to find ways to minimize costs as you prepare to borrow and enter repayment.
