

Sample financial aid offers

Vermont colleges may try to estimate your Vermont grant award, but VSAC will notify you as to the exact amount after you've submitted an application.

Direct student loans are federal education loans in the student's name. Visit www.vvac.org/loans to learn the differences between Direct Subsidized and Unsubsidized student loans.

Federal work-study funds represent an employment opportunity. Be sure to check with your college to see when and how you receive your job placement. Remember: The best jobs go very quickly, so sign up promptly.

Ask if there are any conditions and/or requirements for "free" funds from grants, scholarships, or other sources. These may include maintaining a certain grade point average, a service commitment, or work in a specific field after graduation.

Watch carefully for the words estimated and tentative. These words indicate that the offer has not been finalized and could change once your application is complete.

There may be more favorable loan options available to you. Be sure to research and compare rates and terms.

Financial aid notifications may need to be signed and dated by the applicant and returned by a certain deadline. Follow all instructions!

Don't say "YES" to any college until you compare the complete offer with the cost of attendance. Include estimated out-of-pocket expenses (travel, books, personal items), as well as costs for tuition, fees, room, and meal plans.

What about a federal PLUS loan?

Some colleges will include a PLUS loan in the financial aid offer; others may not. PLUS loans are federal education loans for parents of dependent students. Each PLUS loan is in one parent's name. The parent, not the student, is obligated for repayment.

If a PLUS loan does appear in your offer, you can choose to take less or you can decline it completely.

If it isn't included, you still may be eligible at any time during the year.

Either way, before taking a PLUS loan, compare terms with other available options, including VSAC's education loans for students and parents, which may have more favorable terms. Visit www.vvac.org/compare for help.

Your total offer may consist of grant, loan, and work-study funds. Read the fine print on your notification and on any additional forms included with the notification! Identify the funds that are gifts and the funds you'll be expected to repay.
